

Sue Williamson

Executive Coach & Facilitator

Sue brings a diverse business background from both consulting and corporate leadership to her coaching of individuals and teams. As a coach, Sue often works with leaders who are transitioning in to senior leadership roles where a different set of skills, relationships and versatility of style are required. She enjoys facilitating our leadership workshops in a style described as warm, insightful and engaging.

For more than 25 years, Sue has worked with over 50 companies representing the public, private and nonprofit sectors. Sue coaches mid and senior level leaders and is also a coach in Executive Education Programs for Harvard, Babson and Bentley University. Her recent clients include Biogen, ImmunoGen, Sunovion, Tesaro, Amazon Robotics, PTC, TraceLink, Partners Healthcare and Progress Software.

Before co-founding 3D Leadership Group, Sue served as Chief Operating Officer for Insight Performance Inc., Director of Operations for Delta Dental Plan, and Compensation Consultant for Fidelity Investments. This line management experience guides her recognition of what is important to leaders at all levels, as well as her approach to coaching. Sue's consulting experience with Watson Wyatt, and W.T. Haigh & Co, took her to all corners of the U.S. and Europe where she was leading global compensation projects.

Sue holds an MBA from Babson's F.W. Olin Graduate School of Business and a BA in Psychology from Wheaton College. She completed her professional coaching certifications with Coach Training International and Team Coaching International and is a PCC certified coach through the International Coach Federation. She is certified to use a variety of assessment instruments including the Hogan, MBTI Step II, EQi-2 and the DiSC as well as 360-degree feedback tools including VOICES, The CCL suite of 360's, The Leadership Versatility Index, The Emotional and Social Competence Inventory, Team EI Survey, and the Team Coaching Diagnostic.

Sue supports the Center for Women and Enterprise as a trained file reviewer for companies in the certification process.

Sue loves to ski, kayak, paddle board and bike as well as an occasional round of golf or tennis. She enjoys cooking, reading good novels and spending time outdoors with her family.

Contact: sue.williamson@3dleadershipgroup.com