Angie is an executive coach with nearly two decades of international business experience that included expatriate assignments in Zurich and Hong Kong. She has coached leaders in more than 50 companies and from over 20 countries. In 2013, Angie was recognized as the New England Executive Coach of the Year by her peers at the International Coach Federation.

Angie's recent clients include Amazon Robotics, Biogen, Boston Private, The Broad Institute, Cambridge Associates, Crane Currency, John Hancock, Kronos, McGraw-Hill, Novo Nordisk, Partners Healthcare, Patheon Pharmaceuticals, and PTC. She coaches in the executive education programs at Harvard Business School, Babson College, and Bentley University. Her pro-bono work includes coaching for the Massachusetts State Police and the Social Innovation Forum, and serving as a mentor coach for two professional coaching schools.

Angie was recently invited to join the faculty at Kripalu, the largest yoga education and retreat center in the U.S., where she teaches in the RISE program with a focus on blending mindfulness practices with leadership effectiveness.

During her 18 years in international organizations, Angie was a member of two senior leadership teams while holding positions in marketing, business development, and leadership development. She spent eight years with BankBoston (Bank of America) while living in Boston and Hong Kong, and 3 years with Coutts & Co International Private Bank while based in Zurich, Switzerland. Her early career experiences were with The Kendall Company, Bentley College, and McDonald's Corporation (Toronto, Canada).

Angie has been a guest on VoiceAmerica's talk radio show – Out of the Comfort Zone, and has been quoted or featured in The Boston Globe, The Boston Business Journal, HartfordBusiness.com, and CIO Magazine.

She received her MBA from Babson's F.W. Olin Graduate School of Business and her BBA from University of New Brunswick, Canada. She completed professional coaching certifications with New Ventures West, Team Coaching International, and the Center for Creative Leadership. Her contemplative courses included the Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction program at UMass Medical School and on-going retreat attendance. Her 360-degree certifications include VOICES, Benchmarks, The Leadership Circle Profile, The Leadership Versatility Index, and The Social and Emotional Competence Inventory. She frequently uses the Hogan, the FIRO-B, the MBTI II, and the EQi 2.0 with her clients.

Angie has served on the membership committee of The Boston Club and is a member of Harvard's Institute of Coaching. Originally from Canada, she resides in the Boston area with her husband and two daughters and enjoys international travel, Iyengar yoga, live music, theater, Rolling Stone magazine, and silent retreats.
