

Angie O'Donnell

Executive Coach and Co-Founder – Boston

Angie is an executive coach with nearly two decades of international business experience that included expatriate assignments in Zurich and Hong Kong while working in financial services. In 2002, she became an entrepreneur and co-founded 3D Leadership Group, an executive coaching firm based in Wellesley, Massachusetts. In 2013, Angie was honored to be recognized as the New England Executive Coach of the Year and in 2018, she received the global Master Certified Coach (MCC) credential, a rare designation held by less than 150 coaches globally.

Most recently, Angie has worked with leaders at Alexion, Amazon Robotics, Biogen, Boston Private, BlueCross BlueShield, Crane Currency, The Broad Institute, Cambridge Associates, John Hancock, McGraw-Hill, Novo Nordisk, Partners Healthcare, and PTC. She has coached in the executive education programs at Harvard Business School, Babson College, and Bentley University. Her pro-bono work includes coaching leaders at the Mass State Police, Science Club for Girls, Boston Public Schools, and Girl Be Heard. Angie also was on the faculty for the Kripalu Center for Yoga and Health in Stockbridge, MA, as a mindfulness facilitator.

During her 18 years in large international organizations, Angie was a member of two senior leadership teams while holding positions in marketing, business development, and leadership development. She spent eight years with BankBoston (Bank of America) where she was on the Asia-Pacific leadership team while residing in Hong Kong. Previously she worked for Coutts & Co International Private Bank while based in Zurich, Switzerland; and she had early career roles with The Kendall Company, Bentley College, and McDonald's Corporation in Toronto, Canada.

Angie has been quoted or featured in The Boston Globe, The Boston Business Journal, Banker and Tradesman, CityBiz, and CIO Magazine. She has been interviewed by CUTV News and Voice of America talk radio, and is a frequent speaker for WEST.org – Women in the Enterprise of Science and Technology.

She received her MBA from Babson's F.W. Olin Graduate School of Business and her BBA from University of New Brunswick, Canada. She completed professional coaching certifications with New Ventures West, Team Coaching International, and the Center for Creative Leadership. Her contemplative courses included the Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction program at UMass Medical School and on-going retreat attendance. She is certified to use many 360-feedback assessments including The Leadership Versatility Index 360, as well as The Hogan, FIRO-B, and the EQi 2.0.

Originally from Canada, Angie resides in the Boston area with her husband and two daughters and enjoys international travel, Iyengar yoga, live music, theater, Rolling Stone magazine, the Maine seacoast, and silent retreats.
